

HJPs and elder abuse

Megan King, HJP Lawyer

August 2018

Melbourne Office
PO Box 16013
Melbourne VIC
Tel +61 3 8636 4400
Fax +61 3 8636 4455
justiceconnect.org.au/seniorslaw

today

1

our HJPs

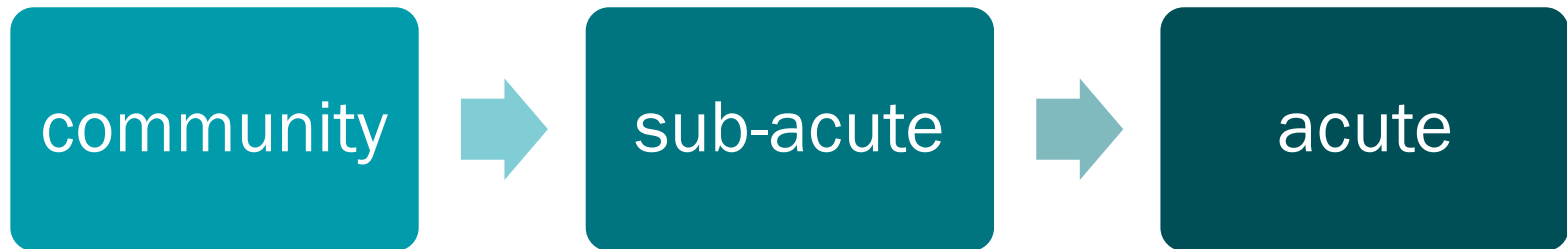

2

our insights

our HJPs

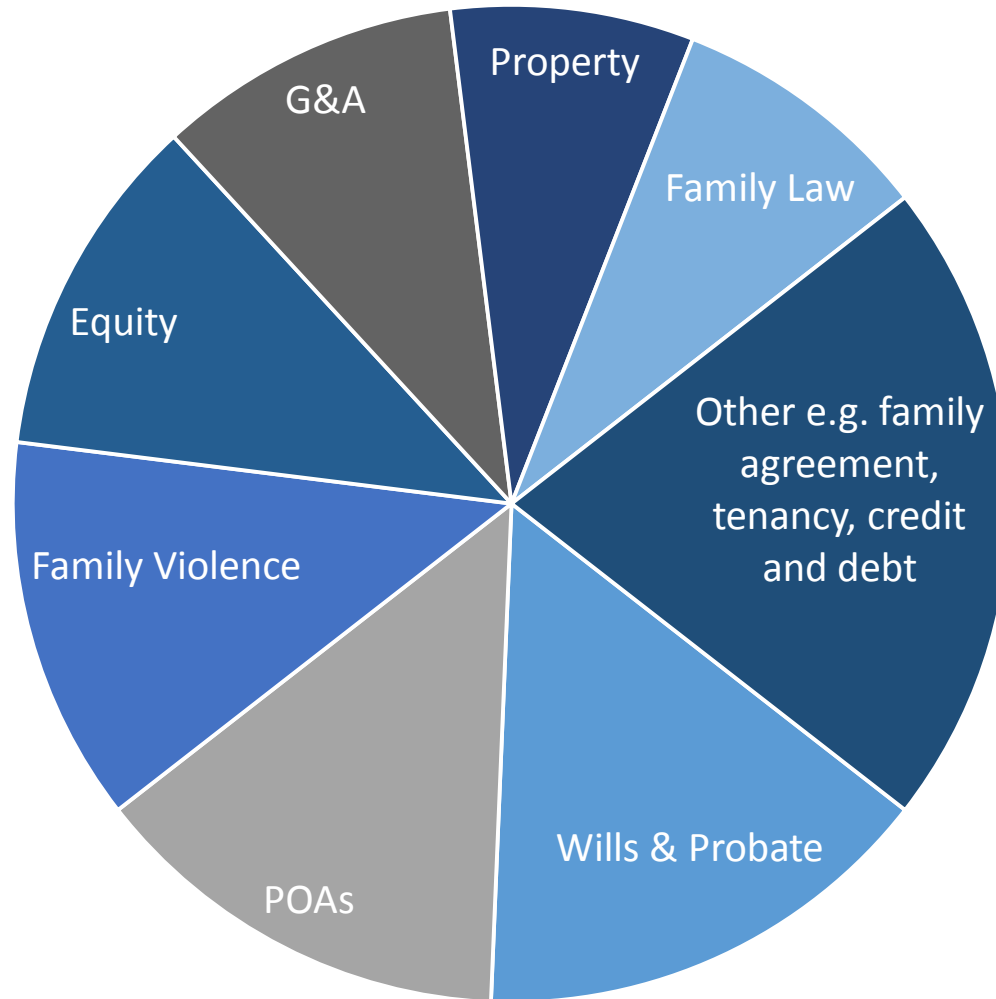

Justice Connect has HJPs in different settings

1,440 instances of legal help

1,300+ attendees
for professional development

areas of law

types of abuse

Direct legal help with elder abuse matters, by type of abuse

Li's story

Li has been married to her husband, Chen, for 35 years. She had a stroke a year ago and now sees a physio every month. It has become apparent to her physio that she is experiencing significant abuse perpetrated by Chen.

Li is unable to go anywhere without Chen. She wants to make a will leaving her savings to her children, but she knows Chen won't allow her to see a lawyer. Li believes that if Chen hears about any will he may become violent.

Li's story

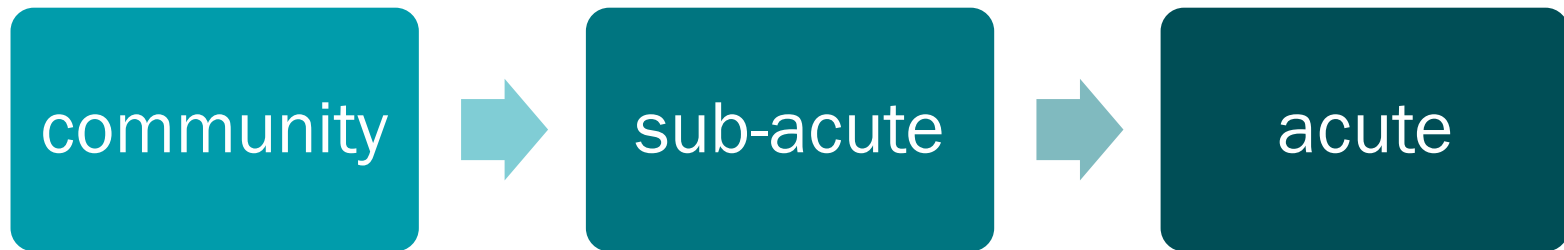

The only time Li could speak to a lawyer was during her physio appointments. Because of the relationships between Li's workers, the lawyer and pro bono lawyers, they could coordinate appointments so that Li could get a will done, while her husband remained in the waiting room.

By arranging a private meeting within the context of an existing health appointment, the lawyers could help Li with her legal issues in a confidential and safe space.

There is no 'once size fits all' HJP model

Different healthcare settings require a tailored HJP

One health organisation may be operating in different health settings

Elder abuse gives rise to distinct considerations

